My soul thy sacred image keeps, My midnight dreams are all of thee; or nature then in silence sleeps, And silence broods o'er land and sea; Oh, in that still, misterious hour, How off from waking dreams I start, To find thee but a fancy flower, Thou cherished idol of my heart, Thou hast each thought and dream of mine Have I in turn one thought of thine

Forever thine my dreams will be, Whate er may be my fortune here; I ask not love—I claim from thee Only one boon, a gentle tear May e'er blest visions from above
Play brightly round thy happy heart,
And may the beams of peace and love,
Ne'er from thy glowing soul depart, Farewell! my dreams are still with thee, Hast thou one tender thought of me?

My joys like summer birds may fly, My hopes like summer blossoms depart, But there's one flower that cannot die— No sunlight to its leaves be given, But it will live and flourish still. As deathless as a thing of Heaven, My soul greets thine, unmasked unsought, Hast thou for me one gentle thought?

Farewell! farewell! my far off friend! Between us broad blue rivers flow, And forests wave, and plains extend. And mountains in the sunlight glow,
The wind that breathes upon thy brow
Is not the wind that breathes on mine, The star beams shining on thee now.

Are not the beams that on me shine. But memory's spell is with us yet— Canst thou the holy past forget?

The bitter tears that you and I May shed whene'er by anguish bowed Exhaled into the noon-tide sky
May meet and mingle in the cloud!
And thus, my well beloved friends, though w
Far apart must live and move. Our souls when God shall set them free. Can mingle in the world of love, This was an ecstacy to me— Say, would it be a joy to thee?

Some word of life e'en then had met His calm benignaat eye; Some ancient promise, breathing yet Of immortality; Some heart's deep language, where the glow Of quenchless faith survives! For every feature said—"I know

That my Redeemer lives.' And silent stood his children by, Husbing their very breath, Before the solemn sanctity Of thought o'er sweeping death; Silent-yet did not each young breast, With love and reverence melt?

The Judge's Mustard Rath.

Two or three days ago, a young friend, who has recently been spending some time in how thoroughly sacred the people of Georgia were during the prevalence of the yellow fever in Savannah.

It seems that Judge B-g, of the Supreme Court of the State, was in the upper country at the time, but within twenty hours' run, by mail, of the terrible disease. Quite suddenly, late one afternoon, he was seized with a head-ache, pain in his back, limbs, &c. Having heard that these were salutations Yellow Jack extended to his victims on approaching them, the Judge, in great consternation, applied to a friend who was "posted," for advice. A hot mustard bath was urgently advised, and being prepared, the Judge was seen laving himself in irritating fluid. Presently he felt better, and finding a cake of soap in the vessel of water he began to apply it quite freely upon his per-

After quite pleasant excercise in this way, he looked down for the first time on his body and limbs, and discovered that he was turning black! Oh, horror! His friend was hurriedly sent for, came and declared that the symptoms were intensely expressive of yellow fever. "But," said the Judge, shivering the while, "I feel no pain; I feel well."

"So much the worse; the absence of pain is a marked symptom!" "Good heavens!" ejaculated the Judge, "what shall I do?" "The only hope is in the mustard. away," was all the advice his friend could give.

And rub he did, with will. He used the soap to open every possible pore, and after some minutes sent for a candle, (for the twilight was fading,) to ascertain his exact cuticular condi-On examination, he was as black as a crow, and the soap which a careless servant had dropped into the tub, was discovered to be somebody's "Patent Paste Blacking!"

A Duelling Anecdote.

We need only add that the Judge survived.

Size of London. London extends over an area of 78,029 acres, or 122 square miles, and the number of its inhabitants, rapidly increasing, was some 2,362,239 on the day of the last census. A conception of this vast mass of people may be formed by the fact that, if the metropolis were surrounded by a wall, having a north gate, a south gate, an east gate, and a west gate, and each of the four gates were of sufficient width to allow a column of persons to pass out freely four abreast, and a peremptory necessity required the immediate evacuation of the city, it could not be accomplised under four and twenty hours, by the expiration of which time the head of each of the four columns would have advanced a no less distance than seventy-five passage of Macbeth in this wise: miles from their respective gates, all the people being in close file, four deep.

The late Peter Harmony, two milfions; came to this city as a cabin boy, and grew rich by commerce. The Lorillards, two millions; came from France poor, and made their huge fortune in the tobacco and snuff business. The late Anson G. There has just been discovered in the province of Logrono, between Torrecilla-de-Camera and Penade-la-Miel, near the high road from Madrid to France, and at a depth of about seventy feet below the level of the soil, a vault ed passage, seven feet in width, the upper part of which and the ground are covered with innunerable stalactites and stalagmites, which in nany parts have united and formed pillars. Seen by torchlight, this gallery, originally form ed by the hand of man, but ornamented by that of nature, presents a perfect fairy scene. This passage, which is from one hundred and fifty to one hundred and sixty feet in length, is terminated by a circular space of about fifteen hundred square feet in extent, the roof of which is so high that the form of it cannot be distinguished. In the midst of this vast salle are the remains of a large funeral pile surrounded at some distance by logs of wood, partly decayed some distance by logs of wood, partly decayed and partly pulverized, and in another part are heaps of human bones, some calcined and others n their natural state. At different points are openings, some of which contain staircases of ascertained, the foulness of the air preventing the persons who made this discovery from remaining any longer in the place.

The common Irish potato, which is now cul ivated extensively in all the civilized countries f the world, and which has become with us almountains and steppes of Chili, Peru, Ecuador, New Grenada, Buenos Ayres, Uruguay, and more recently in Mexico, upon the banks of the Orizaba river. It was introduced into Spain, from the neighborhood of Quito, in the early part of the sixteenth century, and then spreading rapidly throughout Italy and the south of Europe, soon found its way into Germany. The potato was cultivated in Ireland before its value was known in England; and it is even related that it was accidentally introduced into which had a quantity of them on board. The period of its introduction into our country is not exactly known, although it was one of numerous other products ordered to be imported by the Governor and Company of Massachasetts Bay, in the year 1629. It was not, how- and line in which each served. ever, generally known and cultivated either in Britain or North America much before the middle of the eighteenth century. For a long time it was considered by the higher classes as a food fit only for poor people who could not afford to buy bread. In the year 1853 there were raised in the United States about one hundred and six million bushels of potatoes, of which one-third were of the sweet or native variety. Valuing them at the rate of forty cents a bushel, these would be worth upwards of forty-two millions of dollars.

A Faithful Girl.

A case of woman's devotion has recently been brought to our knowledge, which certain equals anything that we have ever met with the realms of romance. The circumstances occurred in this city, and are perfectly well authenticated. While the small pox was raging here a few weeks ago, a young man employed in a store on Lake street was seized with the disease. It was of course improper for him to remain there, and the people with whom he lived, who were distant relatives of his, refused o permit him to stay in their house. The result was, that he was taken to the pest-house. It so happened that he was engaged to be married to a most estimable and amiable young lady. No sooner did she hear of his condition, than she determined at once that the would nurse him. She underwent vaccination, and then went where they had taken her betrothed, to the pest-bouse. Here she found him alone, sick, wretched, deserted by all the world. And here she remained like a minis-tering angel, waiting beside his bed of pain, soothing his distresses, and attending to his wants. He died. But how consoling must have been his last moments.

Though all the world had forsaken him, she, whom he loved better than all the world, re-mained faithful to the last. Her hand it was that soothed his pillow, her eyes still beamed upon him with mournful but unabated affection, into her ear he poured his last words of love and sorrow, and hopes that in this world night never be fulfilled. It recalled to our mind, when we he words that Bulwer puts in the mouth of one of his characters: "To be watched and tended by the one we love, who would not walk blind and barefooted over the world .- Chicago Tribune.

Superintendent. NEW YORK, May 8, 185'. Bill for Injunction. In the Circuit Court in the District of Columbia, sitting in Chan-

Christopher Adams, complainant, James Guthrie, Amos Adams.

Isaac N. Comstock, Samuel Byington, and Richard Wallach, THIS bill of complaint in the above stated cause I states, that the said complainant, on or about the twenty-fifth day of November, A. D., 1851, entered into a contract with the United States government, agreeing to supply the government with five million of brick for the extension of the Capitol. That said complainant, on or about the 12th day of January, A. D. 1852, assigned to one Samuel Strong, the said contract; the said Strong agreeing and promising to pay to said complainant the sum of jour thousand dollars. The bill further states that the said Strong, on or about the 2d day of February, A. D. 1852, assigned the said contract, or one moiety thereof, to Amos Adams and Isane N. Comstock, of the city of Albany and State of New York, and received from the said Adams and Comstock their obligation of promise for the payment of four thousand dollars, or thereabout, as well as a lien of thirty per cent. on the moneys to be paid by the government on raid contract, until the said sum of four thousand dol'ars should be paid; which lien said Strong duly assigned to the complainant in this bill. The bill further states that sometime in the year 1852 the said Amos Adams and Isaac N. Comstock as signed their right, title, and interest in the contract to one Samuel Byington as partner and associate of Richard Wallach, the said Byington and Wallach having notice of the said lien of thirty per cent. on the moneys to be paid by the government on said contract.

The object of said bill is to obtain an injunction ngainst said defendants inhibiting the said James Guthrie, and all persons acting for him, from paying the said moneys to any of the defendants, or their representatives, and the defend ants and their representatives from receiving the said moneys until the sum of thirty-six hun-dred dollars, and the interest thereon, should be paid to the complainant or his legal representa-tives, and such other and further decree as to this court shall seem right and proper. The said Amos Adams and the said Isaac N. Comstock, named in the caption and body of the bill, still residing in Albany as aforesaid, beyond the reach of the pro cess of the court.

It is, therefore, by the court ordered this 1st day It is, therefore, by the court ordered this 1st day of January, A. D. 1855, that the matters and things stated in the aforesaid bill of complaint against the defendants, shall be taken for confessed against the said Amos Adams and Isaac N. Comstock, and such decree made in the premises against them, and each of them, as the court shall deem right, unless the said defendants appear in the court on or before the second Monday in May next, and answer the said bill, and show cause if any they have why a degree as we cause it any they have why a decree as yed for by the complainant should not be assed by the court.

Provided the complainant cause this order, the substance and the object of the said bill of complaint, to be published in some newspaper in the city of Washington, twice a week for six successive weeks, the first insertion thereof to appear at least four months before the second Monday in May next.

Given at rules, the first Monday of January, 1855, being the first day of January, 1855.
